INSIDE

Going for the gold

With the Games taking center stage in Vancouver, seniors of Daughters of Israel are competing in their own sporting events, proudly passing the Olympic torch throughout the West Orange facility. Page 11

Burial societies redux

The newly formed Morristown Jewish Center Beit Yisrael Levra Kadisha is now ready to serve the community, part of a growing trend. Women at the synagogue learn how to do funeral ritual purification, using a "stand-in" for their training. Page 6

Bacon and bagels

Jewish chefs and foodies are finding ways to fuse pork into their recipes, and even the bagel is not exempt — with bacon and cream cheese smears. Is the meet-meets-traditional combo just empty calories, a symbol of our post-ethnic, multi-identity era, or a marketing ploy on the part of hipsters? Pages 16, 19
